THE ARCHER.
When May has come and all around
The daisies dot the ground,
Then out to the woods I go
To take my arrow and my bow,
Of victory my bow is made,
And in a darksome forest glade
Cut from a sapling stem and tall,
And feathered with my arrow's ail.
And sometimes I am Robin Hood,
That older-archer brave and good,
And sometimes I am an Indian boy,
Who loves to shoot the passing prey.
So up and down the woods I roam
To hunt the quail and the quail,
Before the pathway through the glen
Is opened by the shadow men.
And when at night my bow is strung,
To lead a slily and slumbering,
And dream that I am William Tell,
—Clifton Scollard in New York Tribune.

—The engraving this week of the United States troops going down Radcliffe street is the first of a series which will be given in the Gazette this year. The subjects will all be of a local character and will mostly be faithful reproductions taken from photographs expressly for this paper. This new department in addition to the attractiveness of the Gazette involves considerable extra expense but which we do not doubt will be amply compensated in the increased interest taken in the paper.

Many Wheelmen Visit Bristol.
The century run of the Fairhill Wheelmen passed through Bristol twice, both going and coming from Philadelphia last Sunday. There were about 750 persons in the run and quite a number of spectators lined the side walks of the borough to see them go through at the lively pace which they travel.
The citizens of Bristol like to see the wheelmen as they speed through the town, it gives them things up, and gives the strangers an opportunity to see what a beautiful street Radcliffe street, the main thoroughfare here, is like if the clubs choosing Sunday for their runs, continue to be as noisy going through the town as on last Sunday, it will only be a short while before stringent measures will be adopted to abate the nuisance.
During church services the foot of the bugle can be heard by the members of the different congregations very much to the discomfort of the ministers and everybody else. It is time this annoyance should be stopped.

Decorations Day Races.
A large number of entries have already been made for the Decoration Day races at the new track. Horses will be there from all the surrounding country, and there promises to be some lively brushes between the different horses. The fence surrounding the grounds is now being constructed, and all will be in readiness before the days of the race.

A Church Wedding.
Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Mr. Doron Green and Miss Clara Neisser, at the Methodist Episcopal Church on Wednesday evening, May 13th, at 8.15 o'clock.
—Joshua Tomlinson, the recent purchaser of the Robert Morris Hotel, at Morrisville, contemplates a number of important improvements to that old-established hotel.

The Cuban Lecture.
Coroner Ashbridge delivered his eloquent and interesting lecture on Cuba at the First Baptist Church on Monday evening to a select and appreciative audience. The Coroner spoke from a personal observation of the affairs in Cuba as they existed when he was there. The lecture was eloquent, patriotic and impressive, and when he closed he had won the sympathy of the entire audience for Cuba.
In his lecture the Coroner very vividly described the different points occupied by the Spanish soldiers and expressed a very strong desire that the Cubans would receive their liberty; that Cuba had more cause to fight for her independence than had the United States at the time of the revolution, as they are under more cruel task masters and a heavier and more distressing bondage than the United States thought she had when under the British yoke; that any United States citizen who witnessed the plundering and cruel treatment by the Spaniards of the poor defenceless Cubans, even before the insurrection, could not help having a strong desire in his heart for the independence of the island. He also said that the newspaper "revels" concerning the war were frequently misleading, as they were mostly quotations from the fertile brains of the authors, and not a description of the true state of affairs.

A Great Mistake.
The Borough Council made a great mistake at its meeting on last Monday evening, when it neglected to make an appropriation for the maintenance of a Health Officer. A Board of Health without a Health Officer is very much like the play of Hamlet with the part Hamlet left out.
The suggestion made by the Chairman of the Finance Committee, and endorsed by the ex-Chairman of the Police Committee, that the police force could perform the duty that devolves upon the Health Officer without any extra pay, savors very much of that kind of economy that saves at the spigot and flows at the bung hole. What is everybody's duty is no one's duty, and the final result is that performance gives way to unfulfilled promises.
There is another thing to be considered in this matter. And that is that the Board of Health chooses its own officers. Council has no right to make it obligatory upon the Board to force upon it any man or set of men it may not desire. If it refuses to grant any appropriations for the proper conduct of the business appertaining to the Board the responsibility rests upon council, and the health of the people of Bristol suffers by reason of the non-enforcement of the sanitary rules and regulations made for their better protection from diseases arising from filthy

A Poor Job.
The Langhorne and Bristol Trolley Company last Monday morning began to fix Bath street along and between its tracks by sprinkling a little lime stone on the ground smaller than pea coal, the whole job being completed by Tuesday night with the exception of rolling it. The street but was only dug out here and there, where it was a trifle higher than at other places along the line, to admit the sprinkling of the top dressing. At the job now in progress, the tracks are below the level of the street, and to give Bath street its former appearance before the advent of the trolley, they should be raised from four to six inches. The stone foundation of the road was dug out to admit of the laying the tracks and most of it cast away, and during the winter season the road-bed sank to its present condition and no attempt has been made to restore the road to its natural level. The work of macadamizing the road properly between and along the car tracks was faithfully done by the line on Otter street, by removing about six inches of the top dirt and filling it in with broken stone and a dressing of small stone over all. There is no reason why one road should be made to do a good job of macadamizing and grading and another be permitted to escape by just sprinkling a little lime stone on top of its track, which is below the grade of the street.

There Was No Audience.
Watson Bros. Comedy Co., which was to play at Pythian Hall last Saturday evening had an audience of less than twenty persons to greet them, so what little money taken in by them was refunded. It is hoped that this experience of Watson Bros. in Bristol will prove a lesson to them. The Bristol people know a good thing when they see it, and any theatrical company coming here expecting to get an audience without advertising, except by a few stock posters, will be greatly fooled. Bristol is located too close to Philadelphia, where a good show can be cheaply seen, for the people to throw away their money on trash.

Death of G. J. Patton.
Cornelius J. Patton, a well-known business man of Bristol, who for years has been engaged in the wholesale and retail tobacco business, died last Tuesday of congestion of the lungs after a few days' illness. The burial will take place on tomorrow morning, the interment being at St. Mark's burying ground.

Base Ball.
A good game of ball was played at Morrisville on last Saturday between the W. Blinn's of that place and the Bristol A. A.'s. The game, which was witnessed by some 300 spectators, was clean and snappy and was won by the Bristol club. The score:
Bristol..... 2 2 0 0 0 1 0 1—6
W. Blinn..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—4

Emergency Hospital Needed.
There is need in Bristol of an emergency hospital to be used until such time as the patients can be removed to other quarters. Such an institution with one or two rooms and beds located near the railroad station, where most cases needing the accommodation that such an institution affords arise, would not be expensive to erect and would cost but little to maintain.
The latest case that has come to our knowledge occurred on last Friday, when Edward Boucher, a well known and respected citizen of Cornwall, Bensalem township, had a severe attack of vertigo, at the railroad depot, upon alighting from the train. There were no accommodations at the station and after some delay he was removed to Equine Box's office, and received the proper medical attention. During the course of a year persons suffering from injuries received by railroad accidents and other causes would be greatly benefited if a suitable place, centrally located, and containing the necessary furniture was provided for their immediate use.

Relatives of Edward Fenstermacher Wanted.
S. E. Lankard, of Santa Fe, New Mexico, has written to Sheriff Irvin Aaron, enquiring whether there are any heirs of Edward Fenstermacher, who is supposed to be a native of this county, and who left some property that is supposed to be valuable.

—Among the features of the National meet of the U. A. W., in Philadelphia, in August next, will be the many tours, runs and excursions, and a special effort is being made to care for the ladies who will be in attendance, a committee of ladies and gentlemen being selected to care for their comfort while there.
—Steamboat tickets for the excursion to Philadelphia on Saturday, can be obtained at the drug stores of Harry Headley, Emilen Martin and H. H. Purcell, at Philip Winter's shoe store at Samuel Black's grocery, and of the following members of the W. R. A. Committee: Thomas Longstreet, H. H. White and R. F. Harned.

—The Burlington, N. J., Gazette says: "T. Frank Vanborn, of Bristol, Pa., and Miss Laura E. Coer, of this city, were married at Trenton on Wednesday, April 28, 1897, by Rev. Alfred Wihart, pastor of Central Baptist Church. They will make their home in Bristol."

U. S. Troops Invade Bristol.
Last Friday was a great day for Bristol. All its inhabitants were on the quiver. The announcement that a body of United States Troops, that had been visiting New York in attendance on the ceremonies dedicating General Grant's tomb, would go through Bristol on the way to Philadelphia to take part in the dedication of the Washington monument at Fairmount Park, caused expectation to stand on tip toe.
Along the line of what was once known as "The King's Highway," now called Radcliffe, Mill and other streets, the houses were profusely decorated with United States flags. On Mill street, an ancient arch, now belonging to Andrew Schaffer, under which the Marquis de Lafayette passed on the 27th day of September, 1824, was raised for this occasion. On that memorable day General Lafayette rode in a magnificent broucade pulled specially for the event. It was drawn by six cream colored horses, and accompanied by six outriders dressed in French livery. General John Davis and his regiment of 600 Bucks county volunteers escorted the distinguished visitor from Morrisville to the dividing line between Bucks and Philadelphia. The arch on which was inscribed "Welcome Friend," was erected at the Hollow Bridge, and was decorated with flags.

The regulars, composed of four troops of the Sixth Regiment of the United States Cavalry, four batteries of the Fourth Artillery and Light Battery, E. all under the command of Colonel, a grizzled veteran of the Civil War, number 574 men, of whom 244 are in the heavy artillery, 72 in the light battery and 255 in the cavalry. The head of the column reached Hollow Creek Bridge at 10 o'clock, and for about an hour the streets were occupied with the troops and transportation wagons. The sidewalks were lined with people. Martial music filled the air. The stars and stripes floated gaily in the breeze and as the soldiers passed under the arch erected for Lafayette's welcome it was saluted by the Colonel's command with drawn sabres. The soldiers reached Torrensade just after leaving Morrisville, where they remained until Monday.

On Saturday and Sunday there were many visitors to the camp. The troops are now comfortably fixed in their Fairmount Park camp on Belmont avenue, north of George's Hill. They have put the finishing touches to their tents.

Mercantile Appraiser's List.
The Mercantile Appraiser's list recently published shows there are 597 retail business places in Bucks county, and that there are 28 pool and billiard tables liable to mercantile tax. The retailers are divided among the boroughs and townships as follows:

On Saturday, May 15th, 1897, the Upper Delaware River Transportation Company will sell tickets, good for that day only, from Bristol to Philadelphia and return for 25c. Leave Bristol 7.00, 9.20 and 10.00 a. m., 2.15 and 4.30 p. m. Returning leave Philadelphia 2.00, 3.00 and 4.30 p. m. In order to accommodate those wishing to remain to witness the bicycle parade in the evening, the Columbia will leave Philadelphia at 11.00 p. m.

This will afford passengers an opportunity of viewing the war ships at anchor in the Delaware in honor of the Dedication of Washington's Monument on that day.

—The Burlington, N. J., Gazette says: "T. Frank Vanborn, of Bristol, Pa., and Miss Laura E. Coer, of this city, were married at Trenton on Wednesday, April 28, 1897, by Rev. Alfred Wihart, pastor of Central Baptist Church. They will make their home in Bristol."

Channel "Cats."
The Burlington, N. J., Gazette says: The latest addition to the fishy tribe in the Delaware river is the channel catfish, 400 of which were liberated in the upper waters of that stream last week, each fish weighing about four pounds. They were put in the Delaware in the vicinity of Port Jarvis and will work their way down the river to the head of the tide.
Channel catfish are new to the river waters heretofore, and the experiment of stocking the Delaware with them is awaited with much interest by the anglers. The "channel cat" has clear white sides, shading to dark on the back, and its flesh is extremely delicate and palatable. These fish are plentiful in the great fresh-water lakes and are very gamy.

Change in the Tax Rate.
The regular meeting of the Borough and Council of Bristol Monday evening there were present Frank Scott, president, and Messrs. Collier, Dugan, Evans, Fetrow, Joyce, Milnor, Moss, McCarthy, Smith, Samuel Scott, Thos. Scott, Whiteley and Wright.
Communications from Burgess Benjamin S. Johnson, approving of the election of James Wright, Borough Treasurer; Gilkeson and Wright, Borough Attorneys, and Charles Saxton, Chief of Police, were read, and on motion received and filed.
The Finance Committee reported that a woman had been employed to take care of the Council chamber at a salary of $1 per month; recommended the appointment of R. C. Foster as Custodian of the Town Clock, and recommended a reduction in the tax-rate from seventy-five cents to sixty cents on the $100.
The Street Committee reported the canal bridge on Mill street in good condition as far as the wood work was concerned, but that the masonry was in a dangerous condition.
The Police Committee reported six arrests during the month of April, two for horse stealing, one for larceny, one for assault and battery, and two for drunkenness. Four Editorial Association Formed.

A number of editors of Montgomery and Bucks counties attended a meeting at Lansdale, Monday afternoon, for the purpose of forming an editorial association. It was resolved to name the organization the Press League of Bucks and Montgomery Counties. A constitution and by-laws were adopted, after which the following officers were elected:
President, A. K. Thomas, of the Anchor Gazette; Vice President, Watson P. Church, of the New Enterprise; Secretary, C. D. Hotchkiss, of the Doylestown Intelligencer; Treasurer, Hon. B. W. Dambly, of Montgomery Transcript; Executive Committee, J. Clinton Sellers, Doylestown Republican; Wilmer H. Johnson, North Wales Record; E. S. Moser, Providence Independent; George Harrison, Hulmeville Advance; William Clayton, Jenkintown Times-Chronicle; George Fetterolf, Langhorne Standard; A. K. Thomas.

Judge Paxson's Farms.
The Allentown Leader says: Bucks county farmers are free to acknowledge that few of their number know so much about tilling the soil as Ex-Chief Justice Edward M. Paxson. The Judge, as he is locally known, has a liking for agriculture that exceeds his devotion to the law and is nearer his heart than the management of big railroads. In the fertile valley of Buckingham, said by the inhabitants to be God's chosen spot of all the country around, he owns no less than ten good farms, ranging in size from 80 to 100 acres. Each one of these farms is a gilt-edge investment, and in spite of hard times yields to its owner a return of at least ten per cent. He adheres to dairy farming, but with a knowledge of conditions and methods that is exceptional. Crops never go back on him under his shrewd system of cultivation. Among his possessions is a generous slice of Backingham mountain, on the heretofore unproductive side of which he has recently inaugurated an experiment in chestnut culture, and, like all his other undertakings, it seems destined to meet with great success.

Flung Himself From a Car Window.
Mrs. David Oppenheim, the wife of a former Mayor of Vancouver, B. C., is in the hospital at Hudson, N. Y., with the result of a fall from a car window. She was on the way to Philadelphia to be treated by a specialist for a nervous disease, and was accompanied by her husband and a nurse. They occupied a compartment in a Wagner car on the New York Central Railroad. Early last Monday, when the train was a few miles above Hudson, Mrs. Oppenheim flung herself from the car window. The wheels cut off both her feet. Amputations of both legs will be necessary.

Nation's Largest Flag Pole.
The largest flag pole in the United States—over 175 feet long and 80 inches in diameter at the base—will soon be erected in Doylestown. Dr. Swartzlander had it made at a cost of $1000 by David Baird, of Camden, N. J. The doctor, to whom it will be shipped in a few days, will present it to the town.

Hotel License Refused.
An application for a license of the Bellevue House, Langhorne, was refused by Judge Yerkes last Monday on the ground that the petition and bond had not been filed within the time prescribed by the rule of court.

Historic Documents.
With the usual luck of Chicago and its institutions, the Historical society of that city has just fallen heir, under peculiar circumstances, to a large collection of very valuable old documents relating to early transfers of land from the Illinois Indians to white settlers. Years ago these papers came into the possession of Henry M. Singer, then a resident of Chicago. He afterward determined to remove to California, and a friend of his, E. S. Kerfoot, who had been his partner in the business, decided to have him transfer the papers to the Historical society. He did not do so, but turned them over to Mr. Kerfoot, saying: "Keep the documents, and if I die, give them to the society. If you die, I will send for them and may change my mind about their disposition." By a singular chance both men died on the same day, but the death of Mr. Singer took place 18 hours before that of his friend. The deeds have now been handed over to the Chicago society. Had Mr. Singer survived Mr. Kerfoot they would have probably gone west, and being of little interest there might easily have been lost.—New York Times.

A Weighty Consideration.
"I wish," said the bookkeeper discontentedly, "that I had taken up a scientific career. I've a great mind to be an astronomer yet."
"Are you tired of figures?"
"But if you were an astronomer you would be obliged to make calculations on a scale that you never have to attempt now. You'd have to deal with millions and billions and quadrillions of miles, instead of hundreds and thousands of dollars, as you do now."
"That's very true. But I wouldn't be nearly so likely to lose my position if I made a mistake."—Washington Star.

Won at the Finish.
"Aha!" bellowed the purple faced tyrant as the wheeler of the bamboo punted for breath. "You're that for mule!" "BIP!" The basted and wretched was still game, "Mule!" he repeated. "Oh, it is simply sold string!"
The heavy fall of the tyrant told him that he had got in its work.—New York Press.

—The gold vein in Bedminster township is exhausted and the excitement has abated. The deceptive iron pyrites (fool's gold) were discovered in many foundations of dwellings, stables and barns in the vicinity. The sparkling metal thought to be gold was found in great quantities for a few days.
—The disappearance of George B. Brown, a young man from a prominent Bucks county family, has caused considerable excitement in Newtown, where he resided. Brown left his home on Tuesday last week, by train, taking his bicycle with him, and telling his wife that he would return in the evening, but has not since been heard of. Before going, however, he succeeded in having a number of checks cashed by persons who found them to be worthless upon being presented at the local bank. The checks varied in amounts, and one was drawn for $40.
